GANAPATHICHETTYKULAM KUPPAM

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WORK

PONDICHERRY UNIVERSITY

As part of Pondicherry University Village adoption initiative, the Department of Social Work has adopted a village at Ganapathichettykulam for holistic development. The students of Social Work during the concurrent field work practicum render their professional services in diverse settings comprising of social work at work place, medical and psychiatric social work, family and child welfare, social work with marginalized and women and various other Community settings in rural and urban areas, to hone their social work skills and expertise, and bring positive change in the life of people. In this continuation the Department of Social Work aimed to adopt a village to bring holistic community development with high level of sensitization on health and hygiene towards clean and green village realizing the dream of Swachh Bharat. This village adoption program will also try to ensure community ownership and behavioral change.

The Department of Social Work, Pondicherry University is very keen on envisioning Swachh Puducherry, efforts were made to identify and shortlist villages on various cleanliness indicators. Checklist was prepared, permission from local administration was sought and Pilot study was conducted by the faculties and the students of Department to procure the firsthand information on individual and community health and hygiene, sanitation, open defecation, waste disposal and other local issues pertaining to cleanliness. The above mentioned steps were taken to identify the most vulnerable village based on the checklist made on the following broader areas: (checklist in Appendix I)

➤ Cleanliness

- Streets and public places
- Drainage system
- Appropriate sign boards

- Solid Waste Management (SWM)
  - At household and villages
  - Technology centered
  - Livelihood opportunities through (SWM)

- Water and Sanitation
  - Open defecation
  - Leakage and Stagnation
  - Maintenance of community or individual toilets
  - Drinking water accessibility
  - Manual scavenging
  - Water borne diseases in last six months

- Community participation and ownership
  - Waste segregation by household members
  - Participation level of community members in
    - sensitization programs
    - cleanliness program
    - rapport building

- Sustainability practices
  - Cleanliness initiative
  - Public and private partnership
  - Social business on waste reduction program
  - Spirituality and cleanliness

Pilot visits were made in the shortlisted villages to zero in on Ganapathichettykulam kuppam in Olgarate Municipality and Kalapet constituency. The village consists of approximately 300 families of which majority are dwelling on the seaside. The members belong to fisherman community and fishing is their main source of livelihood. To further understand their socio-economic status, cleanliness, health and hygiene, waste management, community participation etc, community meeting and household survey was conducted. After analyzing the survey it was found that four major problems are affecting the cleanliness of the village.

1. Open defecation is very common practice among the general population in the village.
2. No common toilet and only very few households are having individual toilets. Due to this young girls and women are more vulnerable facing safety, personal hygiene and health issues.
3. Lack of awareness about health, personal hygiene, waste management, pro-environmental behavior and women safety and alternate livelihood opportunities.
4. Hazardous sewage from chemical factory in the surrounding area is dumped into the seawater. It has made coastal water frothy on its surface and also led to the extinction of marine species. Consequently, polluting the entire ecosystem and affecting the livelihood and also causing various health issues.

From the above findings it was inferred that to make holistic development in the village, the core issues on cleanliness need to be attended on priority basis. To attain the Swachh goal the most important was mobilizing community members for awareness and sensitization to seek more participation and support. With an objective to sustain the initiative, Community meetings were organized, action groups were convened, local resources both man and materials were identified, one to one meeting was held with women in the community. In the series of visits made by the department the students were supported by community members in the cleanliness campaign in the village and surrounding areas. Theme based rally and street plays were performed by students to show case how the society is changing towards Clean India and how we can adopt it. These street plays not only focused on the cleanliness but also on open defecation where women are facing challenges in their day to day life. Students with the help of villagers cleaned the village and the coastal area of Ganapathichettykulam. Students divided themselves into small groups and went on to each house to explain the need of keeping surroundings clean and sensitized the people on solid waste management. As we found many of the households despite having toilets in their houses practicing open defecation, the consequences of open defecation and problems faced by community members in general and women in particular was explained.

Preliminary mobilization and sensitization activities by the students fostered overwhelming participation by community members in the cleaning campaign. Ever since, the Department has been making follow-up measures to sustain the cleanliness activities, to assess the cleanliness measures taken up by the villagers and help them in cleaning the village. The students of social work frequently visits the school in the areawhere most of the students come from the village, and made many sensitization programs such as street plays, telecasting documentaries on cleanliness and creating awareness on mission Swachh Bharat Abhiyan.Consistent efforts are made to change the mindset of the people in the locality, to bring behavioral change, to induce community ownership and to be accountable for every action towards household and community health and hygiene in Ganapathichettykulam village.

The Recent developments in the village can be noted in the reduction of practicing open defecation, willingness to use community toilet if provided by the municipality, waste segregation at householdby keeping dustbins, use of community dustbins, increasing participation of community members, cleanliness initiative by schools, temples etc. It is not just a day work which brings this change but the continuous effort of the Department of Social Work inmaking community to understand the need of having a clean life and healthy living. As we observe the shift of the people towards keeping their village clean we can say swachh puducherry is not far in achieving its goal to make Indiaas Swachh Bharat.
