   Tourism Master Plan

It is clear that if a tourism destination is to succeed, good planning must take place. Planning is critical to the competitiveness and survival of a destination. Planning must take into consideration not only the economic and financial interests of the public and private sectors, but also the concerns of the residents of the resort destination and the visitors and their preferences. Destination Planning involves a number of steps and activities that include designing, financing, developing and marketing of a destination to attract the visitors. It requires co-operation and commitment of a number of different segments including government and community leaders, architects, engineers, investors, economists, environmentalists and others to ensure the sustainability of a destination.

Questions:

(a) Why is tourism planning important?

(b) What are the major segments of Destination Plan?
